Dear Friends of the Preborn,

Set aside the dates July 13 – 20, 2019! Operation Save America will be conducting their national effort in Milwaukee this coming July 13th through 20th.

During this effort we will be teaching you about two important strains of history. One is about the history regarding a runaway slave named Joshua Glover and the state of Wisconsin's defiance of the Federal Fugitive Slave Act. Second is the history of the rescue movement here in Milwaukee from the efforts of Missionaries to the Preborn.

We will take you right out on the streets to the various locations of both of these historical efforts as we tell you the history.

When we see what brothers and sisters did before us – it is an inspiration to us and excites our hearts to serve Jesus. These two historical strains will teach you the importance of loving Christ and our preborn neighbor both out on the streets and in the halls of the magistrates.

There will be lots of ministry during this 8 day effort. You will learn needed tactics as well as proper biblical thinking.

So keep these dates – set them aside - and consider before the Lord being a part of this effort. Contact us at 414-462-3399 or visit our website MissionariesToThePreborn.com and email us so we can stay in contact.

To watch a 2-minute welcome video to this effort that you can share with others – go to our website MissionariesToThePreborn.com.

A stalwart on behalf of the preborn and righteousness here in Wisconsin has gone home to be with the Lord. Paul Lagan went to be with Him on January 31st, 2019. Paul was 83 years old. His writings (short essays) were priceless and I often gave them to my sons and daughters to read.

You can read some of his writings at his website Alliance4lifemin.org and others at WisconsinChristianNews.com.

Paul also wrote an excellent novel based on his life experience entitled: The Amazing Journey of the Kickapoo Kids – which you can find at Amazon.

Exposition Must Have Application

By A.W. Tozer - Taken From Of God and Men, Chapter 7

There is scarcely anything so dull and meaningless as Bible doctrine taught for its own sake. Truth divorced from life is not truth in its Biblical sense, but something else and something less. Theology is a set of facts concerning God, man and the world. These facts may be, and often are, set forth as values in themselves; and there lies the snare both for the teacher and for the hearer.

The Bible is among other things a book of revealed truth. That is, certain facts are revealed that could not be discovered by the most brilliant mind. These facts are of such a nature as to be past finding out. They were hidden behind a veil, and until certain men who spoke as they were moved by the Holy Ghost took away that veil, no mortal man could know them. This lifting of the veil of unknowing from undiscoverable things we call divine revelation.

The Bible, however, is more than a volume of hitherto unknown facts about God, man and the universe. It is a book of exhortation based upon those facts. By far the greater portion of the book is devoted to an urgent effort to persuade people to alter their ways and bring their lives into harmony with the will of God as set forth in its pages.

No man is better for knowing that God in the beginning created the heavens and the earth. The devil knows that, and so did Ahab and Judas Iscariot. No man is better for knowing that God so loved the world of men that he gave his only begotten Son to die for their redemption. In hell there are millions that know that. Theological truth is useless until it is obeyed. The purpose behind all doctrine is to secure moral action.

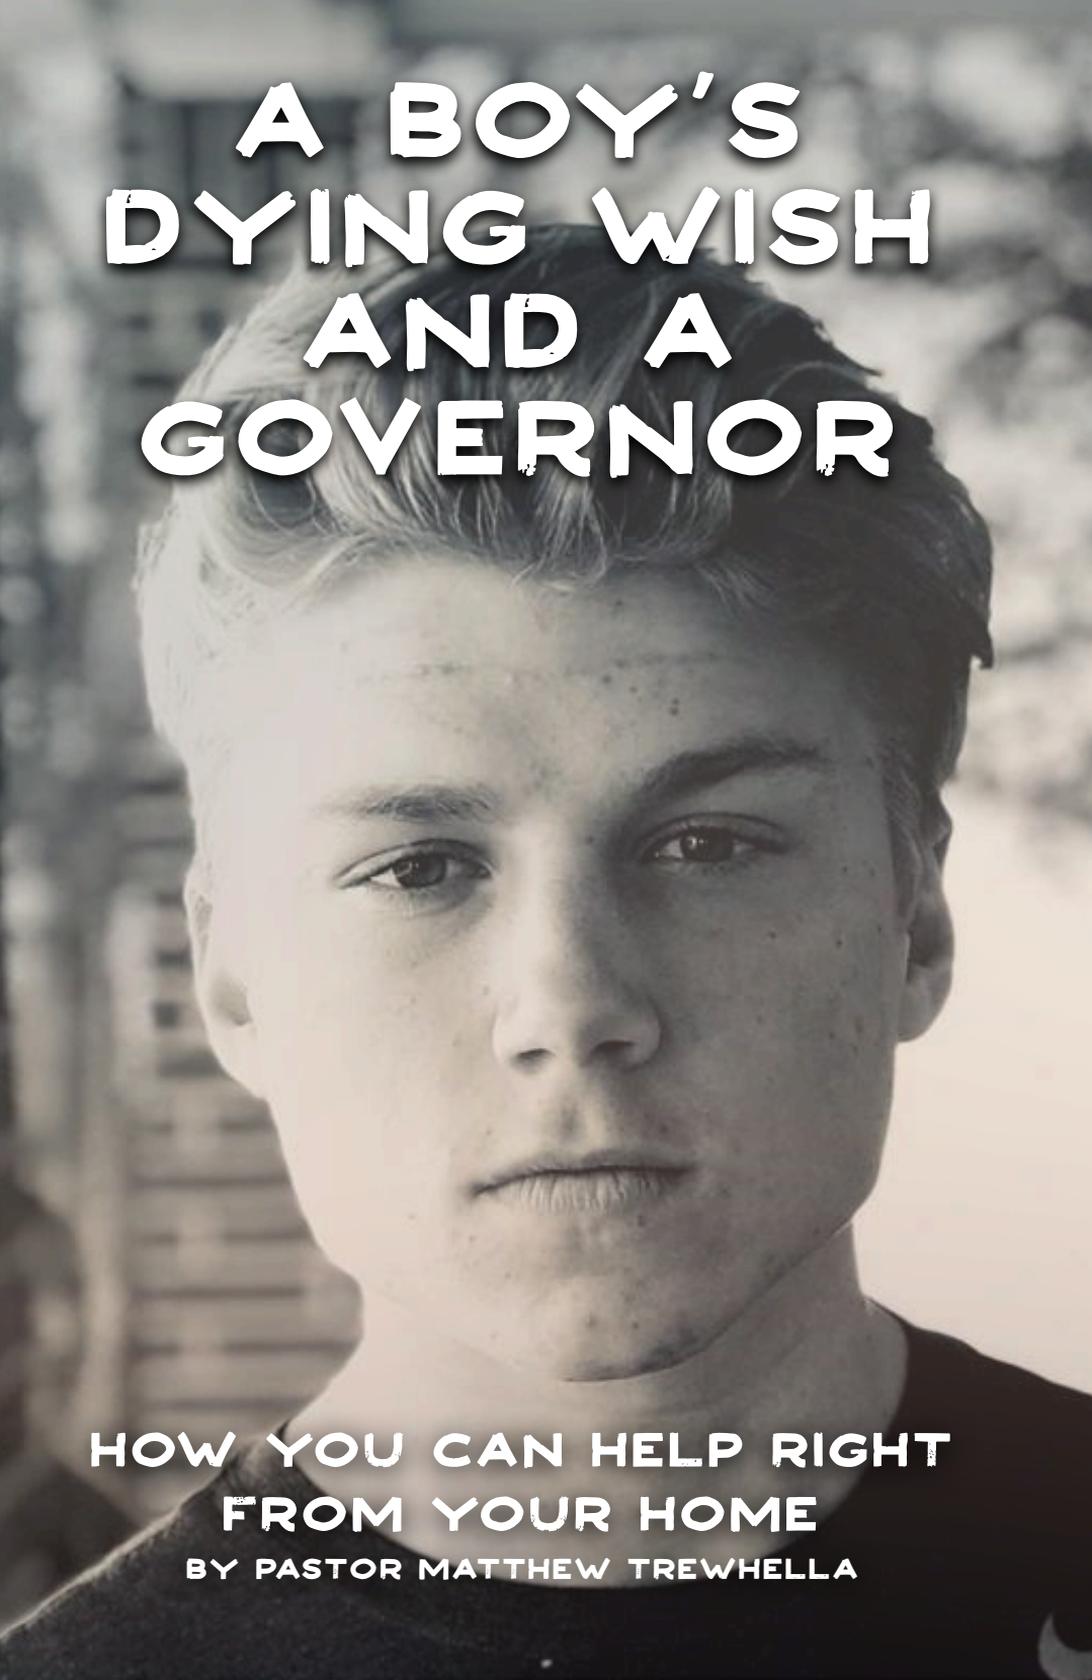

What is generally overlooked is that truth as set forth in the Christian Scriptures is a moral thing; it is not addressed to the intellect only, but to the will also. It addresses itself to the total man, and its obligations cannot be discharged by grasping it mentally. Truth engages the citadel of the human heart and is not satisfied until it has conquered everything there. The will must come forth and surrender its sword. It must stand at attention to receive orders, and those orders it must joyfully obey. Short of this any knowledge of Christian truth is inadequate and unavailing.

Bible exposition without moral application raises no opposition. It is only when the hearer is made to understand that truth is in conflict with his heart that resistance sets in. As long as people can hear orthodox truth divorced from life they will attend and support churches and institutions without objection. The truth is a lovely song, become sweet by long and tender association; and since it asks nothing but a few dollars, and offers good music, pleasant friendships and a comfortable sense of well-being, it meets with no resistance from the faithful. Much that passes for New Testament Christianity is little more than objective truth sweetened with song and made palatable by religious entertainment.

Probably no other portion of the Scriptures can compare with the Pauline Epistles when it comes to making artificial saints. Peter warned that the unlearned and unstable would wrest Paul's writings to their own destruction, and we have only to visit the average Bible Conference and listen to a few lectures to know what he meant. The ominous thing is that the Pauline doctrines may be taught with complete faithfulness to the letter of the text without making the hearers one whit better. The teacher may, and often does, so teach the truth as to leave the hearers without a sense of moral obligation.

One reason for the divorce between truth and life maybe the lack of the Spirit's illumination. Another surely is the teacher's unwillingness to get himself into trouble. Any man with fair pulpit gifts can get on with the average congregation if he just "feeds" them and lets them alone. Give them plenty of objective truth and never hint that they are wrong and should be set right, and they will be content.

On the other hand, the man who preaches truth and applies it to the lives of his hearers will feel the nails and the thorns. He will lead a hard life, but a glorious one. May God raise up many such prophets. The church needs them badly.

A BOY'S DYING WISH AND A GOVERNOR

HOW YOU CAN HELP RIGHT FROM YOUR HOME

BY PASTOR MATTHEW TREWHELLA

A YEAR AGO in March of 2018, Rusty Thomas came up from Texas and spoke at the Wisconsin Christian News Ministry Expo. The next day he spoke at our church to preach the Sunday morning service. He headed home after the service was over – not knowing what awaited him there.

His 16 year-old son, Jeremiah, had some problems with pain in his chest area after football season had ended. They all thought “maybe a minor injury that needs time to repair.” But it only became worse. When Rusty returned home, they took Jeremiah to the doctor and learned the devastating news that Jeremiah had a deadly form of bone cancer – with virtually no hope of recovery.

Jeremiah had experienced a renewal of faith in his life just seven months earlier during an Operation Save America ministry effort in Louisville, Kentucky. He was on fire for Christ!

Since that time he had been rallying other young people to go out and preach the Gospel; to minister outside the deathcamps where the preborn are murdered; and to deepen their walks with the Lord through prayer and Bible reading. Now it appeared the Lord had brought him to deep water.

JUST THREE WEEKS AFTER BEING DIAGNOSED, the tumor in his chest became so constricted around his spinal column that he became paralyzed and could no longer walk. Jeremiah responded by telling his dad and mom – “I can still preach from my wheelchair!” And he did. He still went out to the deathcamps to preach and demonstrate love to his preborn neighbor. He also had opportunity to preach at a couple of churches. News spread of his faithfulness to Christ in the midst of his situation. Hundreds of news stories were written all over the country and all over the world. The faith of many who had grown lukewarm in Christ was renewed.

JEREMIAH WAS GIVEN THE OPPORTUNITY TO MAKE A WISH. Instead of choosing to visit a certain location or to meet someone famous, Jeremiah declared that his wish was to meet with Texas Governor Greg Abbott and appeal to him to interpose for the preborn and end abortion in Texas.

Miraculously and in the Lord’s providence, Governor Abbott called Jeremiah who was notified that the governor would be calling in five minutes. Jeremiah was weak and sick - laying in his hospital bed. Yet when the governor called, he articulated clearly his wish for Governor Abbott to interpose for the preborn and “end abortion here and now” in the state of Texas.

Governor Abbott responded by stating – “Your wish is on the Republican Party Platform positions and it’s what we’re going to be pursuing this next legislative session and that is to outlaw abortion altogether in the state of Texas. So your wish is granted.” Jeremiah broke out into a smile that outshone the sun.

JEREMIAH DIED and went home to be with the Lord on August 26th, 2018. The legislative session has now begun in Texas and an effort is underway to assist Governor Abbott in fulfilling the wish he spoke to Jeremiah.

Please go to JeremiahsWish.org and watch the 3-minute video. Then sign the petition to Governor Abbott to fulfill Jeremiah’s wish. You do not have to be from Texas to sign the petition. And by signing, you strengthen Governor Abbott’s hand to interpose for the preborn in Texas.

Please, contact your pastor; have him watch the 3-minute video; and ask him if he would show it at church on Sunday or at least inform the congregation of it. After the video is shown, people can use their phones and sign the petition while sitting right there in church after viewing it.

AT TIMES, THE LORD WORKS IN UNIMAGINABLE WAYS in the affairs of men, and produces a great goodness. This situation is one of those times where we see the providence of the Lord addressing a great evil in such an unforeseen way. We have been given a rare opportunity here to speak up for our preborn neighbor and to help fulfill a dying boy's wish.

May we not miss this.
